Chinese Say 100,000 Jap Troops Are Near Siberia, Big Fleet Is in Readiness

Mask Is Seen in Tojo Statement That No Tokyo Policy Change Is Contemplated

'Bold Move Ahead'

Chinese Think Japan Is on Verge of Some Unusual Action

(By The Associated Press)

Japan attempted to allay suspicion today that she might be preparing an attack on Russia's "back door" as Chinese reports said that 100,000 Japanese troops had been moved north toward Siberia in the past month and that a big Japanese fleet was massed off north Japan.

Presumably, one of the first targets of a Japanese invasion of Siberia would be an attack on the vital port of Vladivostok, 650 miles across the Sea of Japan from Tokyo.

In an apparent attempt to mask the Tokyo war cabinet's real intentions, a Domei broadcast quoted Premier Gen. Hideki Tojo as declaring that his assumption of the foreign ministry "will not result in any way in an alteration of Japan's foreign policy."

Shigenori Tojo, who negotiated the Moscow-Tokyo neutrality pact and was regarded as opposed to Japanese hostilities against Russia, resigned the foreign minister yesterday.

Tojo's resignation, coupled with the aggressive Tojo's decision to take over the foreign portfolio, had been widely interpreted outside Japan as presaging a possible Japanese attack on Siberia.

In Chungking, China's war-time capital, the influential newspaper Ta Kung Pao said that Tojo had been known as a pro-Russian and that his exit showed "Japan has no more need to maintain diplomatic relations" with the U. S. S. R.

Other Chinese comment declared the shakeup "portends some bold move by the Japanese war party."

Advices reaching Chungking said five divisions totalling 100,000 Japanese troops had been sent north after being withdrawn from the China war theatre.

In the southwest Pacific, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters announced that Japanese troops, badly mauled at Milne Bay, were striking with increased strength toward the key Allied outpost at Port Moresby, New Guinea.

A communiqué said "our ground forces are closely engaged" with the enemy in the Kokoda sector, 60 miles west of Port Moresby. Allied planes heavily strafed Japanese positions and lines of communication.

Action in the Milne Bay sector, on the southeast tip of New Guinea, was described as limited to "scattered jungle fighting of a guerrilla type."

A spokesman at United Nations headquarters said Japanese losses had been heavy as the enemy fell into a carefully prepared ambush by Australian forces supported by a small group of U. S. service troops.

Foreign Policy Unaltered by Resignation of Tojo, Premier Insists

Tokyo (from Japanese broadcast) September 2 (AP)—A Domei broadcast quoted Premier General Hideki Tojo today as declaring that his assumption of the foreign ministry, vacated by the resignation yesterday of Shigenori Tojo, "will not result in any way in an alteration of Japan's foreign policy."

The resignation of Tojo, who was regarded as adverse to Japanese hostilities against Russia, and Tojo's decision to take the foreign portfolio, has been widely interpreted outside Japan as presaging a possible Japanese attack on Siberia.

The resignation of Harohito Tojo, Tojo's deputy, also was announced. His successor is Teruichi Yamamoto, chief of the foreign office's East Asia bureau.

Powers' Case Will Be Given To Grand Jury Next Week

Alienists Will Examine Powers Today to Determine Mental State; Prisoner Talks Freely

Patrick H. Powers, 66, of New Hurley, arrested Monday evening on the charge of having shot and killed his sister and her husband, Joseph and Bridget Neff, after he had withstood a siege lasting the better part of a day, in an isolated farmhouse north of Gardiner, will have the evidence against him presented to the grand jury some time next week, District Attorney N. LeVan Haver said this morning.

The September term of Supreme Court will convene on Tuesday, September 8, following which the grand jury will begin its deliberations.

The District Attorney, who on Tuesday at 2 o'clock arraigned Powers before County Judge J. Edward Conway, sitting as a committing magistrate, charged him at that time with murder in the first degree, in having shot and killed his sister, Bridget Neff. After the prisoner's rights had been carefully explained to him by Judge Conway, Powers waived examination and was held for the grand jury.

Proceeding the arraignment before Judge Conway in chambers, Powers was formally arrested by Sergeant E. J. Hulse on a warrant charging first degree murder, following information sworn to by Lynn Baker of the B. C. I.

The district attorney said that Powers would be examined today by two qualified alienists in order to determine his mental condition.

Tuesday forenoon Powers talked freely to the District Attorney regarding the double killing and the events which preceded it. Powers said that he had been absent from his home at New Hurley for two days, having been hunting woodchucks Thursday and Friday morning. Thursday night, he said, he

Aldermen Toss Lenihan Matter Back to Mayor

Council to Control Park Concessions

Monroe Introduces New Ordinance Taking Lease Power From B.P.W.

Raising the point that it was not legal procedure for the Board of Public Works to lease city-owned lands for concession purposes in the city's parks, Alderman Dorr E. Monroe of the Eighth Ward Tuesday night introduced an ordinance that the council hereafter have charge of the letting of bids, which was adopted by a strictly party vote of 7 to 6.

The new ordinance was introduced after the council by a party vote of 7 to 6 had sustained the mayor's veto of a similar ordinance adopted at the August meeting of the council.

To over-ride a mayor's veto requires nine votes.

Mayor Edelmuth in his veto message to the council stated that it would not be good business to have the city advertise for bids for the concessions in the parks at the November meeting of the council. He said there were several members of the council who had served for a number of years and at no time previous had they seen fit to draft such an ordinance. The mayor believed that the Board of Public Works should continue to have control.

Alderman Gilday moved that the council act on the mayor's veto, which was seconded by Alderman Black, but before the vote was taken Alderman Dorr E. Monroe of the Eighth Ward, speaking on the new ordinance, said that the mayor in his veto had advanced the reason that November was too far advanced to ask for bids but that had been done so that the council would know how much revenue could be anticipated before the annual budget was made up.

Alderman Monroe said he believed that those who desired to operate concessions would be willing to bid at any time of the year.

The second objection raised by the mayor was that as the Board of Public Works had had control for some time of the bidding that this procedure should be continued.

"This was no valid objection," said Alderman Monroe, "as a concession leased by the board was not legal." He contended that only the council had the authority to act on bids on city-owned land, and that some time the question might be raised.

Alderman Monroe quoted from the general city law which stated that there should be no sale or lease of real estate owned by the city except it was authorized by the common council and approved by the mayor.

Alderman Black in reply said that he believed the adoption of such an ordinance at this time was inopportune, and he believed the ordinance should be shelved for some months. "Citizens who bid for the concessions have a right to be protected," said Alderman Black "and conditions may be such that next year they can not operate or operate the concessions."

Alderman Monroe said that while it was true that citizens

F.D.R. May Fix Salaries In Message

Allowances for Increases Would Be Provided; Wage Stabilization Reported Sure Studies Prices

Roosevelt Has Three Alternatives in View on Farm Prices

Washington, Sept. 2 (AP)—From usually reliable administration sources it was learned today that President Roosevelt has about decided to stabilize wages, but is debating whether to include salaries, as well.

Wages and salaries, along with control of farm prices were described by these sources, who preferred to remain anonymous as the major decisions to be made before the Chief Executive delivers his Labor Day message on the cost of living.

Presidential advisers have divided the compensation question into three parts, as follows:

Wages—Primarily manual labor, especially in war factories, paid on an hourly or daily basis. Unofficial guesses are that the President will ask that wage rates in this field be stabilized, by permitting increases in the hourly or daily rates of pay only if the raise is in proportion to the rise in the cost of living. Apparently, there will be no interference with workers getting bigger pay envelopes by working more hours.

Salaries—Mostly white collar workers paid by the week, month or year, up to $10,000 a year. If included at all, some allowance probably will be made for pay raises accompanying bona fide promotions.

Eig incomes—Salaries and other forms of compensation in excess of $10,000 a year. Some suggestions have been made of discouraging such large incomes by forbidding employers from taking income tax deductions as part of their operating expenses, for more than $10,000 for any one employee.

Also some consideration for budgeting each employer to a total payroll, as in Canada, where compensation of individual business executives may be adjusted up or down as long as the employer's payroll doesn't exceed some formula.

On farm prices, the President was reported to be choosing between three alternatives. Let farm prices find their own levels, but use government subsidies to hold down the retail price of food.

Fix price ceilings on farm products, as now permitted by law at 110 per cent of parity, and use subsidies if necessary to hold down the cost of food.

Use war powers to nullify the 110 per cent parity provision and fix ceilings at whatever level that will keep down the cost of food without subsidies.

Another issue to be decided is whether the President will set up a "super board" to administer the cost of living program. Officials appeared fairly agreed to this a few weeks ago but arguments about who should, and who should not be on the board have again made its creation uncertain.

The "super board" started out to be a committee of leading government officials. Then an outsider was added to referee intra-government squabbles. One of the latest proposals is to add more outsiders to represent labor and employers.

The Treasury was reported to be opposing any detailed mention of new taxes in the message, and officials said they also doubted if the President would touch on proposals for compulsory purchases of war bonds.

Explosion Explained

Haddonfield, N. J., Sept. 2 (AP)—An explosion in the sky accompanied by a bright flare startled residents of south Jersey early today. J. M. Levitt, assistant director of Fels Planetarium in nearby Philadelphia, said the blast possibly was a mere bolide—a meteoric fragment of celestial matter hurtling earthward.

City Will Insure Public Buildings

Air Raid Policies Will Be Taken With $800 Fee Voted by Council

Mayor William F. Edelmuth's recommendation that the sum of $800 be appropriated to pay the premium for air raid damage insurance on city buildings was unanimously approved by the Common Council Tuesday night in authorizing the appropriation.

The mayor called attention to his communication to the fact that the city owned property valued at more than $500,000.

The council also approved an appropriation of $260 to pay the salary of James E. Howard for the remainder of the year. Mr. Howard is employed as an extra clerk in the city treasurer's office.

The Board of Health sent in a communication requesting that $500 be appropriated for the purpose of engaging an assistant to the board's meat inspector. The position is to pay a salary not to exceed $125 a month. The request was unanimously granted by the council.

Joseph Gellner of 325-331 Foxhall avenue sent in a communication to the effect that the gas station that had formerly stood on the property had been discontinued and the building and pumps removed and that there should be an adjustment in the assessment.

Bahr Gets 30-Year Prison Sentence; Appeal Is Planned

Presiding Justice Thinks Bahr Is Protecting Nazi Colleagues; Leniency Asked

Newark, N. J., Sept. 2 (AP)—Herbert K. F. Bahr, convicted of conspiracy to serve Germany as a spy, received a 30-year prison sentence today.

The sentence was the maximum prison term possible under the espionage statutes, but the court could have ordered his execution.

Judge William F. Smith, who imposed sentence in Federal District Court, expressed the belief Bahr was still protecting Nazi colleagues.

"From my experience," the court told him, "I believe you have not turned over to the government all the information you have. I believe you have other names and addresses."

At no time did Bahr look at Judge Smith. He kept his eyes on the table before him.

Assistant U. S. Attorney Thorn Lord, who presented the government's case against Bahr, asked the court to impose the death penalty on the 30-year-old defendant.

A jury had convicted the former Buffalo (N. Y.) scholar and athlete last Monday.

"If this man were an American in Germany," Lord told the court, "they would dispose of him summarily without trial. They would not wait until sunrise to shoot him."

In imposing sentence Judge Smith expressed the opinion Bahr was "justly convicted. It is not surprising the jury did not believe your story."

"Your defense, however, carries some element of plausibility," he continued. "Whether or not you sincerely abandoned this project upon which you were about to be engaged, you will be afforded ample opportunity of proving your sincerity."

He said Bahr had given only names and addresses of alleged cohorts in foreign countries. "Knowing full well the truth of this information could not be checked."

Charles R. Hardin, one of Bahr's two court-appointed attorneys, pleaded for leniency. He said:

Schools Show Drop In Registration

Kingston's schools opened for the fall term on Tuesday with a total registration of 4,736, as compared with a first day registration in September, 1941, of 4,853, according to figures compiled by Superintendent of Schools Arthur J. Laidlaw. This is a decrease of 117 from opening day registration in 1941.

Superintendent Laidlaw called attention to the fact that a number of boys and girls are employed on farms during the summer period, as well as at other jobs which will end Labor Day, and he said that he expected there would be an increase in registration Labor Day week.

The registration Tuesday was:

New Course Due To Open in City

Teacher Problem, However Might Cause Delay

Superintendent of Schools Arthur J. Laidlaw said this morning that the State Department of Education had approved the selection of Thomas L. Partlan, one of the teachers in the Vocational School, to teach the new course, known as a "demonstration course," in the Kingston school.

Mr. Partlan left for New York Saturday and Monday morning began two weeks of intensive training and study at New York University to fit himself for the new work.

Superintendent Laidlaw said that he was unable to give any definite idea as to just what the course would comprise, but that was one of the things Mr. Partlan would learn during the next two weeks.

He is to finish his work September 12 and the present intention is to start the new class on September 14, following his return to Kingston.

One threatened complication in regard to the course already has arisen, however. In a list of 43 Kingston men whose names appear as classified 1A by the Kingston draft board Tuesday is that of Mr. Partlan. Superintendent Laidlaw said that he had asked to have Mr. Partlan placed on the deferred list. If that is not done and he is called into service it is a question as to just what the next move will be in regard to starting the class.

A number of boys already have signified their interest in the new course, although no steps have been taken as yet toward organizing the class.

The program calls for an initial enrollment of at least 15 boys and girls in order to start the course here.

Rommel's Drive Is Big-Scale Example Of Nazis' Timing

Coordination of Campaigns Is Super-Effort to Get Middle East and End War

By DeWITT MACKENZIE (Wide World War Analyst)

Nazi Field Marshal Rommel's attack against the British in the Egyptian Desert bears the earmarks of being the big show for which we've been waiting—an all-out German effort to make quick conquest of Egypt and the Suez Canal.

This action is part of Hitler's grand strategy for overrunning the Caucasus and Middle East. He is placing wholesale dependence on this vast operation to win him the war.

Rommel's drive is inaugurated at the peak of the crisis in his master's battle in southwestern Russia. It comes at the critical moment when Stalingrad is in grave danger, and the Nazi chief is threatening to break through into the lower Caucasus.

We have a classic example of Nazi coordination on a big scale. Actually Marshal Rommel's forces form the right flank of Hitler's Caucasian drive. The Fuehrer's plan for this operation, which encompasses many countries, is this:

If Rommel can overrun Egypt, capturing the great naval base of Alexandria, Port Said and the Canal, he will pretty well have nullified the effectiveness of the British fleet in the eastern Mediterranean. This will render the whole Middle East vulnerable to attack.

Meantime Hitler hopes to capture Stalingrad and crack the Red line which now bars him from the drive southward through the Caucasus to the northern border of the Middle East. Should he succeed, he and his henchman would be in position to make an assault from both east and west on the zone comprising Palestine, Syria, Iran and Iraq—a nutcracker movement.

And it's important to note that this latter phase of the plan could be carried out after winter had largely stopped fighting on the Russian front north of the Caucasus. The winter isn't severe in the southern Caucasus, and military operations both there and in the Middle East would be quite feasible.

Nazis Must Be Stopped

With this background it's obvious that the allies must stop both Rommel in Egypt and his boss in the northern Caucasus. It would be a catastrophe difficult to estimate if this Hitlerian scheme should succeed.

It's a dangerous moment for the allies, but taking the position as a whole there's no reason to despair over our chances of dealing with it adequately.

We have no details of the strength of the forces opposing each other on the drifting sands of the Sahara. We do know that both sides have received considerable reinforcements since the fighting died down the first of July and it looks like a fight to the finish.

Rommel's reason for attacking the British on their left flank just above the great Qattara Depression (a huge sink in the desert) is clear. The crafty general's first purpose is to escape from the confinement in which the two armies are held on the narrow front between the Nile and the Mediterranean.

These so-called "double A" priorities, under a change in priority procedure adopted in June, are reserved for a secret list of military end-products to be completed within a specified length of time.

Dispatch Says Tanks in Great Numbers Support Imperial Armies

Prisoners Taken

British Troops Make 'Sally Raid' and Get Prisoners

By ROGER D. GREENE (Associated Press War Editor)

U. S. army tanks fighting alongside the British helped bar the path of Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's new three-day offensive in western Egypt today while American fliers shuttled through one of the worst dust storms of the war to blast Axis supply depots and break up German dive-bomber formations over the desert battlefield.

A bulletin from British G.H.Q. said British forces were locked heavily in battle with Axis armored columns all day yesterday in the southern sector of the narrow front.

U. S. army planes engaged in extensive operations over the entire area, the communiqué said. A censored dispatch from Edward Kennedy, Associated Press correspondent at the battlefield, said American tanks in "greater number than ever before" were supporting Gen. Sir Harold Alexander's British imperial armies.

"In the southern sector on September 1, our forces, including armor and artillery fought throughout the day with the enemy's armored forces in the area between El Himeimat and the Ruweisat ridge," the British command said.

On the northern flank, British forces made their own sally on Monday night and in a "successful raid" captured a batch of German prisoners.

Despite swirling sandstorms, the communiqué said, allied planes attacked the enemy over a large scale, breaking up at least two big Stuka formations and pounding enemy transport on the coastal road between Gambut and Sidi Barrani.

The Italian high command asserted that 51 Allied planes had been shot down in two days of aerial fighting and that four others crashed after hits by Italian anti-aircraft fire.

Front-line dispatches said Rommel's armored spearheads had split into two columns after advancing eight miles through British minefields at the southern end of the 35-mile corridor between El Alamein, on the Mediterranean coast, and the desolate Qattara Depression.

The main Nazi tank column turned north, it was reported, while a smaller column branched off to the south.

Latest advices said General Alexander was holding back his main tank force, presumably to guard positional advantages, while armored vanguards of the 600-tank Axis army warily probed for a "soft spot" which might open a road to the Nile.

Medium bombers of the U. S. 12th Bombardment Group and heavy bombers of the 98th Bomb Group attacked Axis rear positions and vital supply lines, and planes of the 57th Fighter Group were in the thick of the fight over the battlefield, slashing at Nazi Stukas.

"We enjoyed it," said Captain Hopkins, of Palestine, Tex., pilot of one of the first three U. S. Army Air Corps bombers to attack the advancing Germans.

Not a single Allied pilot was lost, it was announced.

Italian field headquarters, still without intimating that a major Axis offensive was under way, said German and Italian motorized troops made a series of thrusts

Probe Is Begun

Abuses of Super-Priority Ratings Are Underway Into War Contracts

Washington, Sept. 2 (AP)—The war production board has started an investigation into abuses of the new super-priority ratings by a considerable number of war contract holders.

Some companies operating under the production requirements plan have been using AA-1 and AA-2 priorities to obtain quick delivery of materials for the improvement, expansion or construction of their own plants, W. P. B.'s compliance branch said.

These so-called "double A" priorities, under a change in priority procedure adopted in June, are reserved for a secret list of military end-products to be completed within a specified length of time.

Disorders Break Out When Two U. S. Soldiers Make Their Appearance on Belfast Streets

100,000 Londoners See U. S. Soldiers, Marines on Parade

Belfast, Northern Ireland, Sept. 2 (AP)—The appearance of two United States soldiers on Belfast streets today soon after Thomas J. Williams, 18-year-old member of the outlawed Irish Republican Army, was hanged in a heavily guarded jail for killing a policeman.

When police sought to disperse a crowd of about 300 persons, angrily shouting at the Americans, "Why don't you stay at home?" two demonstrators hurled missiles.

The police charged with drawn batons and the crowd quickly scattered. Other throngs had collected outside the jail where Williams was hanged, but, save for a mild street demonstration, there had been no other outbreak.

This Northern Ireland capital had been declared out of bounds for United States troops and the presence of the two soldiers, neither of whom was harmed, was not immediately explained.

The crowd was singing Irish Republican songs when the soldiers first were seen. The Americans were greeted with still-armed Nazi-type salutes and jeering comments.

Two of the demonstrators were arrested on charges of rioting and were sentenced to three months imprisonment.

All United States troops in Northern Ireland had been ordered to stay out of Belfast today to avoid any violence against them on the part of I.R.A. members who bitterly opposed the execution and have claimed the right to clear Northern Ireland of the A.E.F. and British forces by whatever measures present themselves.

Police Are Mobilized
Fearing that the hanging would be the signal for widespread violence, especially after the discovery Sunday outside Belfast of a cache of explosives and arms, police were mobilized and a special force was posted around the prison early today. Only residents of the immediate area were permitted within 200 yards of the prison gate.

When an official posted the notice of Williams' execution on the prison wall, a crowd of hundreds of women began a procession toward the center of Belfast, singing "God Save Ireland." As they passed police they gave what spectators described as a Nazi salute. Police broke up the procession, but the women reassembled and continued the march.

While the I.R.A. sympathizers gathered on one side of the street, another crowd gathered on the opposite side and sang the British anthem and "There'll Always Be an England."

The Duke of Abercorn, governor of Northern Ireland, refused a final plea to reprieve Williams last night and said "the law must take its course."

Five other Belfast men, convicted with Williams for the slaying of the policeman last Easter, had been granted leniency. Williams took full responsibility for the shooting.

The order making Belfast out of bounds for United States troops was issued after a police statement that an I.R.A. manifesto made it plain that "this illegal organization has been preparing for attacks on the armed forces of the crown and the United States forces stationed in Northern Ireland."

The munitions dump found Sunday was said to contain enough explosives to blow up half of Belfast. A young man, reported to be a prominent member of the I.R.A., was killed in defending the dump. He was identified today as Gerald O'Callaghan, 19, of Belfast. A second cache was found at a neighboring farm.

Some quarters suggested that Germans who have freedom of movement across the border in neutral Eire had helped accumulate the explosives and weapons. Officials said, however, that none of the arms was of German origin.

Connally Would Have 50 Per Cent Tax on Earnings

Senator Asks His Aides to Draw Amendment to New Revenue Measure

Washington, Sept. 2 (AP)—A proposal for a 50 per cent levy on the excess earnings of individuals was drafted by Senator Connally (D., Tex.) today as the Senate finance committee waited an outline from the treasury of its suggestions for an unprecedented spending tax.

Connally said he had asked legislative aides to draw an amendment to the new revenue bill patterned after the excess profits tax on corporations.

He explained that the proposed amendment would fix a base period to compute average earnings of an individual in much the same manner that such earnings are figured for corporations which use the method of ascertaining excess profits tax liability.

If an individual made more money in 1942 than the average for the base period, it was Connally's proposal that he be taxed 50 per cent of his additional or excess earnings. He said some allowances would have to be made for persons who are on a fixed salary basis with automatic yearly increases in pay.

"What I am trying to do is to tax the increase in individual earnings that has been brought about by the war boom," the Texas senator told reporters. "Some inequities may develop, but I believe that this increase could stand a 50 per cent tax. It is because of the possible inequities that I am not proposing a 90 per cent tax such as we have voted for corporations."

Connally said he planned to submit his amendment after the treasury lays before the committee a new program of individual taxation built around the proposed spending tax.

This program was understood to call for a graduated tax on the expenditures that an individual might make over and above his regular income exemptions and deductions, plus special added credits for payments on debts and savings. Quarterly collection of this tax probably would be suggested, if it were adopted, treasury officials said.

The need for some new form of tax was stressed by Senate committee members, who calculated that in tentative actions thus far they have cut approximately $1,000,000,000 in potential revenues off the House bill, reducing to $5,271,000,000 the prospective increase in yield over the present law.

Bicycle Output
Washington, Sept. 2 (AP)—The War Production Board reduced to 10,000 a month today the number of bicycles which may be manufactured and centered production in two plants to free the remainder of the industry to produce war weapons. The 10,000-a-month production represents only 20 per cent of the already greatly curtailed production permitted in July and August when the maximum was 50,000 for each month.

During the preceding three months the monthly production was 63,000, representing 42 per cent of the 1941 rate of production. The new limit is only 6 2/3 per cent of the 1941 production rate.

Philip T. Schantz is a sub-district civil director in the official directorship of Ulster's committee. The public is invited to attend and hear Major Blackwell and meet the directorship of Ulster's Aircraft Warning personnel. No tickets are required.

To Place Salvage Box
Mayor William F. Edelmutt announced today that a salvage box would be placed in front of the Service Men's Center at 672 Broadway, which will open shortly. The mayor requests citizens deposit their scrap in this box. The proceeds realized from the sale of the scrap will be used to carry on the proposed activities of the center in entertaining soldiers passing through Kingston.

"If sufficient sums are realized," said the mayor, "it will not be so necessary to solicit contributions from local citizens."

Flax cultivation in Eire has increased from 200 acres 10 years ago to 16,000 acres last year.

Voorhis Suggests Measures to Curb Inflation Spirals

California Representative Says Full Job Should Not Be Put Upon President

Washington, Sept. 2 (AP)—Swift action by Congress to curb the "spiraling menace of inflation," through legislation, rather than handing the task over to administrative executive agencies, was urged today by Rep. Voorhis (D., Calif.).

"Congress should not leave all this job on the President's doorstep," he said in an interview, amplifying a previous house address in which he blamed the lawmakers, themselves, for failing to inspire "more earnest" public regard.

Amid mounting indications that President Roosevelt was planning to brake inflation through a series of executive orders under his broad wartime powers, Voorhis contended that Congress itself should take on the assignment. He added:

"If Congress is going to let the President perform quasi-legislative functions affecting domestic economy, then I think that is where it loses its position and relinquishes its responsibility."

Voorhis argued that the anti-inflation legislation should be written by November. He advocated as major steps:

A tax bill stiffer than the one passed by the House and now pending before the Senate finance committee, with even greater increases in individual income levies.

A program of compulsory saving, based upon non-transferable, interest-bearing government bonds.

Congressional endorsement of the War Labor Board's labor policy, setting a ceiling on salary boosts of 15 per cent over the wage level of January 1, 1941.

Removal of the "escalator" clause on farm products in the price control law, in order to freeze them at 110 per cent of parity as of the day when the prices of other commodities were fixed. (Parity prices are designed to give farmers a purchasing power for their products equivalent to that of a base period, usually 1909-14).

He declared that the present law permitted a continuous increase in the price of farm products as the cost of services rose, resulting in turn in continuous demands for increased wages at a time when consumer income is increasing and consumer stocks dropping.

New York Man Injured When Shotgun Discharges

The condition of Walter Stock, 28, of 57 East Fourth street, New York, who received the charge from a 16-gauge shotgun through the calf of his left leg Saturday afternoon at Shandaken, was reported as apparently fair at the Kingston Hospital this morning. He had been listed as serious, but is now doing better.

Troopers Ray Dunn and Frank Maish and Corporal Reilly and Trooper Edgar Crosswell of the B.C.I., who investigated the shooting, which took place at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon, found that Stock and his brother-in-law, Louis Provenzano of Lynbrook, were walking toward a woodchuck, which the latter had spotted on the Shandaken golf course.

Stock was walking ahead of Provenzano, who was carrying the shotgun, with the safety off, when the latter stumbled in a small hole and the gun was discharged, the load of No. 2 shot passing through the calf of Stock's leg.

Dental Hygienist Killed at Beverly

Cambridge Woman, 24, Is Stabbed; Step-Father Is Arrested

Beverly, Mass., Sept. 2 (AP)—Awakened from her sleep, Miss Ruth Stone, 24, of Cambridge, a dental hygienist, was stabbed to death shortly before midnight in the home of her mother and step-father.

Police booked the step-father, Roger W. Mason, 49, on a murder charge and said he would be arraigned today.

Police Chief Joseph Murney said the motive behind the slaying had not been determined.

Miss Stone, with a friend, Miss Dorothy Brooks, 20, of Cambridge, had been visiting the Mason home and both young women had gone to bed in a studio couch in the living room at about 9:30 p. m.

Chief Murney said the assailant, entering the house at about 11:30 p. m., brandished a knife and stabbed Miss Stone, who fled to the dining room, where she again was stabbed, fatally.

Miss Brooks, unmolested, telephoned to a doctor, who in turn called police.

WAR BALLOTS

The War Ballot Commission reports a great increase in the volume of applications for war ballots, but desires to warn, not only the relatives and friends of soldiers and sailors, but the men and women in the armed forces themselves, that because the time is getting short, they should not delay in getting the necessary information to the Commission upon which the latter will be justified in sending necessary application to the war voter.

Mails are often slow even in peace time, and much more so in war time. No application can be considered by the Commission which is not mailed to the Commission on or before midnight, September 15.

The Commission calls attention to the fact that it is highly important that members of the armed forces, who have filed applications for a war ballot, should, upon being transferred from one military unit to another, or moving with their unit from one camp to another, promptly notify the Board of Elections in their home county of such change. This will enable the Board in sending out the war ballot to get it to the soldier in time to be used. Otherwise, if sent to the address originally given, it may be greatly delayed in the mails, even in some instances so much delayed that it will not get back in time to be counted on December 10, where it has been mailed outside of the Continental United States.

Potency of the soldier vote is being considered by party leaders who remember that in 1918 men in uniform sent home approximately 30,000 ballots in a war election. Alfred E. Smith defeated Governor C. S. Whitman by 14,842 votes.

In gubernatorial races in New York in 1928 and in 1938 the margin of victory is also noted.

In 1928 a shift of some 13,000 votes would have elected Albert Ottinger over Franklin D. Roosevelt.

In 1938, a switch of about 32,000 votes would have meant victory for Thomas E. Dewey over Governor Lehman. A wave of American Labor Party ballots in New York City swept Lehman into office.

With estimates of eligible votes in the service ranking beyond 300,000 and no good guess as to how many will vote, the armed forces can decide the winner.

GIFTS OF BLOOD

Human blood nowadays is hoarded as precious metals used to be. The Kingston War Council recently announced that approximately 327 donations of blood were made to the Kingston Blood and Plasma Bank. From this amount 125 pints of plasma have been collected, frozen and stored.

The minimum quantity of plasma recommended by the Federal authorities for a city the size of Kingston is 350 pints, that is one pint for each hospital bed. Approximately 1,000 donations are needed to provide 350 pints of undiluted plasma. It readily can be seen that if the goal is to be reached, and it is expected that it will be, many more people must volunteer.

Those who have already donated blood some 12 years ago are again asked for more blood.

Throughout the county, residents in the various districts are responding to the call.

To those who have donated blood and to those who will in the near future, residents of the city and county are deeply indebted. It is urged by the War Council, that donors respond immediately as the time may be short before the need is almost overwhelming.

INFLATION PERIL

Uncle Sam, rather tardily, shows an inclination to establish such wage and farm controls as Canada has already done. Price Administrator Leon Henderson and Donald Gordon, chairman of the Canadian Wartime Prices and Trade Board, have not been putting their heads together about it at Washington.

Henderson admits that Ottawa has been ahead of Washington in the battle against inflation. Wage and farm-price controls, along with enforced savings and a stronger financial set-up, have been in force there for some time. Mr. Gordon frankly expresses his fear that if the United States doesn't get busy quickly to stabilize its own war economy, the inflationary trend already evident here will roll over into the Dominion, to the great misfortune of both nations.

The indifference in such matters shown by American farm and labor groups, and also by government and industry in this country, is surprising. Far too many people in responsible positions, including the legislative and executive departments at Washington, have been slow to grasp the situation and provide safety controls. Gordon says that taxation should be higher here, to reduce purchasing power at the same time that it provides war funds.

TOO MANY ACCIDENTS

Traffic accidents are declining in this country, but not so rapidly as they should. July fatalities, though 30 per cent less than in recent years, do not seem to represent any percentage improvement over pre-war figures. That is, with fewer cars and trucks on the road, the drivers do not seem to be driving any more safely than they did when the roads were crowded. If this is really the situation, you might say it represents a loss rather than a gain, for freer roads should mean more freedom from accident.

The net result for this year is now expected to be about 30,000 traffic deaths. This would be a shocking thing at any time, and is especially so when human life is so valuable, for every reason, as it is today. Nothing except the freedom and other supreme values that the nation is fighting for will justify the squandering of human life now.

The Finns say they have "shut their ears" to all peace proposals, and seem determined to wear out all the other nations and then take over.

Speaking of "man power," there soon will be 4,500,000 women working in the war industries.

It looks more and more as if that long-desired "second front" will be aerial.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M. D.

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act.)

TIME TABLE OF DIGESTION

If everybody remembered that it takes about forty-eight hours for wastes from food eaten to leave the body, there would not be such large amounts of laxatives and purgatives used. This does not mean that laxatives and purgatives are never needed, because there is nothing gives a better pick-up, mental and physical, than a laxative when needed.

However, the laxative is not needed so much because wastes lying in the intestine are poisoning the blood, but because the extra weight of waste matter lying in the lower bowels or colon, drags on the nerves in this region and causes a feeling of heaviness, depression and fatigue.

As a matter of fact, it is not natural or normal for the large bowel to be empty. It is completely emptied by a laxative or a purgative (strong laxative), then it will remain empty for nearly two days. And because there is no bowel movement the next day, the individual may think that he needs another laxative because he has always believed he should have a bowel movement every day.

In an article on the spastic colon (spasms occurring in the large bowel), Dr. William Harry Glafke, in Medical Clinics of North America, speaks about the "time table" of digestion; that is the length of time of the passage of food from the stomach to lower end of bowel from which it is thrown out as waste matter—feces.

Food eaten yesterday as three meals, breakfast, lunch and dinner, was passed through the stomach and small intestine during yesterday and last night, and what is left (waste matter) is flowing into the first part of the large intestine (large bowel) this morning. During today and tonight the large intestine (also called colon) will move this waste slowly up the right side of the abdomen, then across the front of the abdomen to the left side and down to last few inches from opening. Here it will be gathered as a mass and be passed out as tomorrow's movement.

Briefly, what you ate yesterday is digested in stomach and small intestine in 24 hours. What is left is waste matter and takes another 24 hours to pass through the large intestine and be ready to be thrown out.

Remember, a healthy bowel is not an empty bowel; it should be continually pushing wastes toward lower opening.

"Billy Mitchell," by Emile Gauvreau and Lester Cohen

It happened that the day I read "Billy Mitchell" by Emile Gauvreau and Lester Cohen there appeared this headline on the first page of the New York Times:

"British Deem Our Heavy Bombers Unsuitable for Raids on Continent." I just had finished a chapter in the book which charged flatly that the "Airplane Trust" had in the last war sent to Europe exactly 196 planes out of an appropriation of $1,650,000,000, and that these were Del Haviland 4's which General William Mitchell had repeatedly denounced as "flaming coffins," because the gasoline tank was so located that in a crash it drenched the pilot with gasoline and effectively incinerated him.

This coincidence was not pleasant. Messrs. Gauvreau and Cohen were friends of Billy Mitchell's. To them fell the job of presenting his case after his death from heart disease in 1935. The job was welcomed, although it was difficult. It also was not done soon enough.

In 1935 Mitchell had pointed out the coming war in writing, had described its course and technique, and had offered remedies and preventive measures in formal testimony before governmental agencies.

But late or no, it is a fabulous and shocking story. It is so documented, so that when the authors declare that Mitchell was farther along in the science of military aviation at the end of the first world war than the American Army and Navy were by 1935, you have to listen. The book describes, for example, the effort made to prevent Mitchell from demonstrating that an airplane can sink a battleship more than twenty years ago, and how he forced the idea through, and sank not one but two of the naval prizes we had brought over from Germany.

The long and dramatic court-martial through which Mitchell was broken for violation of discipline is described too. Mitchell believed the airplane trust was endangering the safety of the country. He demanded, over the heads of his superiors, that nearly every one of the currently accepted air war tactics be adopted—this in the middle twenties. He put in writing all these prophecies, and they still exist. So, Messrs. Gauvreau and Cohen charge, he was broken.

The circumstance is also pretty bitter medicine these days. By controlling utility manufacture of various kinds of goods, Britain hopes to release 30,000 workers for war industries and to save much raw material.

"AT CENTURY'S TURN"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

It was a big day for baseball fans on June 13, 1926, when the Kingston Colonials defeated the St. Louis Cardinals of the National League, in a 13-inning game at the Fair Grounds by a score of 4 to 3.

Art Smith twirled for the locals with Melvin behind the plate. A feature of the game was a home run clout with two men on base by Eddie Phelps, Kingston's center fielder.

The Colonials lined with Art Smith, Melvin, Phelps, Kelly, Allen, McCue, Karis, O'Brien, Peters, while the Cardinals were led by Rogers Hornsby and Jim Bottomley.

I also recall that on June 8, 1926, the milk question was temporarily settled in Kingston when the Board of Health adopted an ordinance permitting the sale of but three grades of milk in Kingston on and after September 1, of that year.

The grades permitted were certified, Grade A raw and Grade B pasteurized. The greater part of the milk consumed in Kingston was Grade B.

Mayor Morris Block who presided at the health board meeting that night favored the adoption of the three grades specified. On June 15, 1926, marked a red letter day in the history of the Kingston Hospital for that night the financial drive to raise $300,000 to rebuild the hospital that had been practically destroyed by fire, was raised. The total result was announced at a victory dinner in the state armory on Broadway, now the auditorium, which was attended by more than 500 workers who had taken part in the successful drive.

Leafing back the pages of the city's history to June 15, 1906, I recall the death of John DuBois in his home on Franklin street. Mr. DuBois in the Gay Nineties was widely known as a builder of fine carriages.

That same day James J. Brink was appointed an alderman to succeed James S. Winne who had resigned.

Twenty years later on June 15, 1926, Mayor Morris Block appointed George J. Sharkey of Johnston avenue a member of the Common Council to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Alderman William G. Smith.

Alderman Sharkey at that time was serving as chief clerk in the Kingston office of the West Shore railroad.

Selective Service Announcement Ranks as Confession That Muddle Has Existed in Drafting of Quotas

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Sept. 2 — Announcement that all local draft boards must complete their classification of registrants by October 16 is a virtual confession that the Selective Service regulations and quota system have been applied now for several months without knowing how many men really were available for service in all classes.

Just how the national Selective Service administration could have ordered local boards to draft men in certain instances irrespective of their dependency or marital status—when the administration itself did not know how many single men without dependents or how many single men in non-essential businesses were available is a mystery into which Congress might well inquire.

Discrimination between citizens in time of war is the most serious offense that can be charged in a democracy against officials in position of authority. That there has been discrimination between age groups and between classes and that the whole Selective Service operation has in many instances worked injustice is not ameliorated by the fact that in the majority of cases the local boards have been fair or that in a majority of the instances there have been no discriminations.

Letters are piling up showing that the Selective Service administration either does not know of the injustices or else that it is so swamped with the details of its job that it has not yet corrected the inequities and injustices. Ninety nine out of every hundred citizens will go to war willingly and endure any hardship provided there are no favorites and provided when the call is for married men, for example, it is clear that all able-bodied single men have been called, too, and the supply exhausted.

The principal criticism of the Selective Service administration is that it has failed to make a nationwide pool of classes so that the citizen would be assured of fairness on every side.

The Government Appeal Agents Association of Essex county, New Jersey, recently passed resolutions condemning the discriminations arising out of the quota system and also declaring that since most registrants have been classified and deferments considered without the personal examination of the dependents or the employers, provision for such personal consideration of each case be made.

Vernon Denman, chairman of a local board in Des Moines, Iowa, writes under date of August 29, "A survey of the seven local boards which have their headquarters in this city was made this week by a reporter for the Des Moines Tribune to determine the interpretation of the several boards on the question as to whether they had a right to change the classification of 3-A to Class 1-A and then forward these men for induction.

"The wide difference of opinion is appalling and I still maintain it is not the fault of the local boards and it is charged only to the office of the national director. It is a shame that such conditions are allowed to exist."

From Birmingham, Alabama, W. V. Bartlett, comes this letter:

"As a board member, I can attest fully that what you have written is a fact. Such a vital and important law as the Selective Service Act affecting the lives of millions of Americans and the production of very much needed war materials should have been regulated with most careful and weighted thought—both by national and state directors and administrators with the same unbiased freedom and thought by local board members."

Many letters are coming from local boards, too, which say they know nothing of any injustices and that criticism of their work is unfounded. But for every letter from a local board that insists the act has been administered fairly comes ten times that number from citizens in other parts of the country who have been aggrieved by what they consider unfair treatment. Certain local boards are aghast at the idea that employers aren't called personally in for information on occupational deferments but the others or hand there are other letters which show that technicalities and evasions are responsible for denying hearings to those who should have had them.

Nor is it easy to understand the case, for example, of the man who owns and operates his own business which the war production board said was vital but he is now forced to close down because he has been unable to train a successor within three months and the draft board insists he must be inducted. On the matter of procedure he writes:

"The local board classified me in 1-A and the appeals agent without my knowledge at the time, appealed my case to the state appeal board in Alabama. I was not informed as to the date on which my appeal would be decided and, therefore, had no opportunity to present my case to them and might say anything in my file which might show the need of continuing my business. This three man appeal board voted unanimously to sustain the findings of the local board and I have been informed by the state director of Selective Service that due to the fact that the vote was unanimous I cannot take an appeal on my own behalf nor can the state director appeal it in my behalf."

The registrant in question says he will be glad to go into the army but he doesn't see why Uncle Sam doesn't give him a chance to preserve through training some other manager for three months more a business considered vital by the members of the staff of the war production board. Washington Daybook

By JOHN GROVER

(For Jack Stinnett On Vacation)

Washington — Even educated Americans have a slightly Hollywood idea of India, with somewhat less than no real knowledge of the country's basic problems. That's the word of Sardar J. J. Singh, president of the India League of America, now in the capital urging U. S. aid in resolving the Indian crisis.

The religious problem, Singh avers, is strictly a manufactured bogeyman. There are roughly 275,000,000 Hindus and 80,000,000 Mohammedans in India. Singh says in their day-to-day, rubbing-ellows living, there is no more friction than between Roman Catholics and Protestants in the U. S.

Gandhi's All India Congress party, but a resident of the U. S. for 17 years—cites Gandhi's willingness to accept an all-Moslem governing council as proof of the fact that independence, and not religious domination, is the basic motivation of Indian Hindus.

There are Singh admits, religious crackpots in India, narrow bigoted and vicious. But India has no monopoly on such specimens.

Just now there is a vocal but insignificant group in India advocating "Pakistan," which is severance of Moslem India from the mother country, with the ultimate aim of joining the Moslem provinces with Afghanistan, Iran, Iraq, Syria, Turkey and Egypt in a vast Pan-Moslem Empire. Hindus Singh cited the Moslem Moslems—three Moslem states—oppose any partition of India.

The Indian religious issue has been made a political football for generations. Britain has insisted on composition of the religious question by talking Indian freedom, but Singh says there is more than a suspicion that some of the "religious riots" in the past

"proving" that the Indian community was unable to get along, were inspired to forestall demands for independence.

He pointed out that this would have a parallel in the United States. Inspired violence to sway public opinion, such as the bombing and burning of factories and offices, has not been unknown in this country. The side which hired hoodlums to wreck its own property could then point to the other as the perpetrator.

In the current crisis, the religious issue has been raised as a red herring, Singh says. Mohammed Ali Jinnah was quoted in stories released from India as stating that he would lead the Moslems in revolt if British settlement of the independence issue did not conform to his ideas of Moslem rights. Jinnah is the leader of the "Pakistan" movement. Singh told Washington newspapermen.

The inference he sees in the Jinnah story is that Britain is unable to make any settlement in India, satisfactory to either Hindus or Moslems, and hence must maintain the status quo.

Again reverting to a U. S. parallel, he suggests that this would be comparable to the U. S. government denying Philippine independence on the threat of some thoroughly discredited anti-Semitic or anti-Catholic rabble rouser to lead an "uprising" of U. S. Protestants if the Catholic Philippines were granted independence.

Singh is a Sikh, descended from the rulers of the Punjab. Since he is of neither leading Indian faith, he can take a dispassionate attitude. He knows both Hindus and Moslems, has lived with both.

Singh, who arrived unheralded, has made a deep impression in his whirlwind series of conferences in Washington. Whether or not his visit bears fruit, he's made a lot of capital figures stop and think awhile about the India they don't know.

A3C of The Rubber Situation

America Hunts a Victory Crop

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE
Wide World Features Writer
Washington — Good old crude in comparatively small amounts from Latin-America and Africa will help our new synthetics keep the nation's rubber cupboard from going bare.

This year's shipments are expected to total about 35,000 tons—some 17,000 tons from Africa, 14,000 tons from Brazil and Peru and 4,000 from Central America, including Mexico's guayule.

These contributions will amount to only 4 per cent of the United Nations' requirements of 800,000 tons. But because crude can be made to grow much farther by mixing with scrap and some of the synthetics, it will help a lot as our stockpile of natural rubber grows smaller.

Outlook Not Promising
Here in the U. S. A. there are many species of trees, shrubs and plants which are sources or "may be" sources of natural rubber. However, plant specialists of the Department of Agriculture say that none of these as yet gives promise of providing large supplies within the next two or three years.

One of the most promising, say the experts, is guayule. Seeds of this slow-growing desert shrub are being planted in the Southwest, but it will take four years or more to grow enough to make a substantial contribution to the rubber supply. Congress has authorized the planting of 75,000 acres. At least 600,000 acres would be required, say the specialists, to provide a sixth of the country's normal needs.

Others Studied
Uncle Sam's plant specialists are giving considerable attention to two species of Cryptostegia, a Madagascar rubber vine which has been planted in many parts of Florida for ornamental purposes. Rubber from these vines, which are limited to frost-free areas, is of good quality, but the yield runs only from 2 to 3 per cent and no practical method of extracting it has been found.

SOMEDAY, THEY'LL BE TIRES—The government has tackled the job of raising a crude rubber supply, even though the realization is several years away. Here, in the Beltsville, Md., experiment station, an expert checks the growth of guayule plants, one source of rubber.

Considerable publicity has been given to the Russian dandelion, but the Department of Agriculture says the yield of rubber from the plant has been "pitifully small."

Selected goldenrod has given promise of a substantial rubber content but the experts say that up to the present the quality has been low. Satisfactory methods of extraction have not been devised. There are two species of milkweed which could be grown in large quantities in desert areas, but again, the rubber yield has been very low and no method of utilizing it commercially has been developed.

Rabbit Brush Too Expensive
The rabbit brush, which grows in California, Arizona, Nevada, New Mexico and Utah, contains appreciable amounts of rubber. Good stands of it are limited to widely scattered local areas so collecting and transporting it would require an enormous, and probably uneconomical, expenditure of labor.

At this stage of investigation, the Agriculture Department's specialists believe that the development in tropical America of hevea—the original No. 1 crude like the Japs grabbed in the Far East—offers the best hope for long-term natural rubber supplies.

Men in Short-Wave Radio Work Thwart Nazi Boasts

Words Sent Out on Air to Fight Propaganda and Get American Facts to Enemy

TRUDI McCULLOUGH
New York, Sept. 2 (Wide World)—In big black type on a white placard, the sign stares down at the hurried young men before the typewriters:

"Will a man risk his life to hear the words I'm writing?"

In the short wave section of the big New York Broadcasting Company, the offices are glassed-in, and the sign can be seen from a dozen vantage points.

But most of the young men, working in their shirt sleeves, forgetting the lighted cigarettes on the ash trays, don't need to raise their eyes to the sign.

They know. Some of them—from personal experience—know that their words are being heard. Some have risked their own lives to hear the "Voice of America" which they, themselves, are now making articulate.

Blond, 33-year-old Ernst Erich Noth fled Germany in 1933. He became a well known author in France, writing in French.

When the Germans came there he was in hiding for a year and "a secret listener to foreign broadcasts."

Today he heads NBC's German short wave section. And with all sobriety he weighs the words he now sends to those who dare to listen as hungrily and eagerly as he did.

Prominent on the staff at CRS is another German who knows, too. Twenty-nine-year-old Ernst Hoffmeister is tall and ascetic looking—or perhaps just still hungry-looking. For three years he was an active member of the underground movement in Germany and escaped to Switzerland with the Gestapo at his heels.

A mainstay of the French section at NBC is easy-going, dark Georges Bernier. His French is Parisian, his England, Oxonian.

He, like Noth and Hoffmeister, has taken out citizenship papers, but before the war he was in a publishing house in Paris. When war came he was at the front as a liaison officer between French and British forces. And he remembers 15 days of mental hunger when broadcasting was completely muzzled in France after his collapse. He remembers how the people wanted to know—now greedy they were for a few fragments of news.

Hundreds More

There are hundreds more like them—Bernier, Noth, Hoffmeister—working for the major outlets, sending their news, propaganda, and counter propaganda over great short wave transmitters, preparing 1,000 different programs a week.

In this war of words, their effort is stupendous. But it is quiet and calculated in preparation, anti-climactic in its act of transmission. Each man, of course, knows the time of his broadcast. With an eye on the minute hand of the clock, he finishes his copy, and walks down busy corridors to an empty studio.

As only the engineer watches from an adjacent glassed-in cubicle, and manipulates the sound, the broadcaster seats himself at a table in the empty room. There is a second or two of non-assertive music as the program changes.

LIFE GOES TO A PARTY
It's always fair weather when good fellows get together. UTICA CLUB Pilsner Lager will assist in good fellowship whether it is in the home or club.—Adv.

the barest fraction of silence. Then: "Dear radio listeners, America speaks!"

It looks like a rehearsal, not like the real thing. The broadcaster looks ineffectual sitting there talking aloud in an empty room. When he's finished he goes back to his office to start again preparing the words he speaks to the night.

You Can't Know

That's what it always is in the case of German broadcasts—"like talking to the night" the young men with the responsibility tell you. You can't know, you never know who or how many listen. They can't get letters out. From France you can still hear occasionally by letters or returned travelers.

Even from occupied Holland surreptitiously sent letters arrive saying, "We have heard from our neighbor upstairs." What does it mean? That the voice on Dutch broadcaster Van Boven, whose name means "from above," is still coming in.

They can't say more and they run a risk if they say that much, for listening to the voice of America is an "eye for an eye" business in Germany and occupied countries.

A man can sometimes save his life by fast talking, but just as often the extreme penalty is administered—and he can lose it.

To aid the fast talkers, American stations have stopped introducing their programs with the United States National Anthem.

Instead they may use a German waltz or some meaningless music. Then if the listener is interrupted by the Gestapo, he can say the music misled him, he thought it was a German station and as a good patriot, turned it off when he found out to the contrary.

Why, if the Germans so fear and hate these broadcasts, do they let them come through? They often can and do "jam" the broadcasts with static until they are extremely difficult, though not impossible to hear.

The truth of American news broadcasts is clear. Dr. Goebbels, and that disfaith can be contagious to other Nazi promises and preachment.

But again Dr. Goebbels, by months of painstaking work, can sometimes "use" British and American broadcasts more effectively than he can use his own.

If he can successfully "plant" a phony story that is picked up and relayed by the United States to the German people, then prove it wrong—he has accomplished one of his major coups.

Such a case happened many months ago. In a Scandinavian paper he planted a story that the R. A. F. had bombed and destroyed a section (which can not be named) of a German city.

Foreign broadcasts sent it back to the German people. Next day Nazi radio and press trumpeted: "German workers you have heard the Allied claims of destruction. At your lunch hour today go to that intersection and see for yourself."

The resulting distrust of German listeners "who had seen for themselves" was estimated by short wave experts here to have cost us from three to four months of effectiveness before it could be overcome.

Allowed to Come in
But despite their effect on the people, the foreign broadcasts are allowed to come in—sometimes clearly—because Nazi officialdom must listen.

They must hear Allied confirmation of Allied losses. If Production Boss Donald Nelson announces our nearness to President Roosevelt's 50,000 planes a year goal, they want to know that. If U. S. Major General Mark Clark in England, promises a second front, the Nazis are all ears.

But America has its counter propaganda, too. At one point when battle news was consistently bad for Germany, the attention of the people was diverted by constant talk over the German home stations about strikes in the United States.

The Voice of America counter-attacks by having a United States labor leader calculate the hours lost by strikes here and contrast their minuteness with the hours lost by the Gestapo in overseeing imported labor and guarding against "slowdowns" in Germany.

Whether counterpropaganda, news, or propaganda, 15 to 20 hours a day the artillery of words broadsides against the Nazis, attempting to bring despair to the Nazi indoctrinated—news and hope to the Allied faithful.

The big short wave outfits are eight in number: Columbia Broadcasting and National Broadcasting in New York, World Wide (the famous WRUL) and Westinghouse in Boston, General Electric in Schenectady, Crosley in Cincinnati and KGEI and KWID on the west coast.

Davis Sees Them

All are overseen by Elmer Davis overseas division of the Office of War Information, with Robert Sherwood as the director. All have access to information, research, and programs prepared by the government agency.

The smaller outfits use the programs exclusively. Giant-like NBC and CBS, with large staffs, long trained in short wave, prepare almost all of their own material.

Infinitesimal in its beginnings the government agency rapidly stepped from servicing stations with supplemental information to servicing them with programs written by the government staff.

They looked into the whole picture, discovered one station had a fine Czech program and a bad German one. By constructing tie-lines, they piped in a good German program from another station and traded it for the Czech show.

They saw to it that two powerful stations were not beaming on the same area with similar programs at the same time.

As the staff grew, they leased commercial stations and began broadcasting at Europe themselves. They sent "directives" to all stations so they might have a uniform approach on important matters.

They established a "monitoring" service whereby German and other broadcasts for home consumption were eaves-dropped, recorded and furnished to all United States short wave stations that they might counter false claims.

They got underway, or expanded, propaganda in the form of movies, posters, books, magazines, leaflets to be dropped by planes; little pamphlets, easily hidden or destroyed, to be passed secretly in enemy and occupied countries. But more about these later.

Truro, Mass.—This Cape Cod town's police force—consisting of Patrolman David Francis—has joined the Coast Guard.

Selectman Burton S. Hart said a successor probably would not be chosen until next spring.

"There is no need for one," Hart declared.

Disappearing Evidence
Cincinnati—The prosecutor had a good case but the evidence was dwindling.

Two men were charged with stealing three cases of butter. One pound of the loot was put in the prosecutor's property vault. To show the grand jury. Informed of this, Assistant Prosecutor L. F. Britten investigated and found the evidence melting away.

He decided the butter carton alone would convince the jurors—and called for a mop.

Three Dollar Punch
Geneva, Ill.—Harry (Slim) Holze, charged with operating a gambling device, testified that Fritz Burkweit, a Kane county supervisor, visited his tavern, played a slot machine and lost, then got out a warrant.

Justice of the Peace Walter Nurenberg fined Holze $100 and costs. Holze paid it, then turned and socked Burkweit on the chin. Burkweit got another warrant, charged El Paso, Tex.—Mrs. Bill Lovan, wife of a Fort Bliss soldier, was visibly impatient as she waited and waited in a downtown beauty parlor.

Then Pvt. A. R. Kuehn dropped in. He used to be a hair-dresser back east, he ventured, and if she didn't mind . . .

She didn't.

It was a lovely hairdo, she said later.

Deferment—the Hard Way
Topeka, Kas.—State selective service headquarters says bashing isn't permissible.

Officials said a departing draftee at Great Bend, Kas., reached out the train window to bash his draft board chairman over the head, injuring his hat and his dignity.

The youth got his deferment—a six-months jail term.

It was McTague's wallet; he didn't know he'd lost it.

Adds Bankers' Shift

London (AP)—What has been dubbed the "Bankers' Shift," comprising 120 bank employees of all grades from managers to messengers, is now working on Sundays in Sheffield war plants.

The white collar financiers will work every third Sunday to keep vital machines going and give regular workers a day off. Most of them are employed in a shell case factory from 9 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. and from 1:30 p. m. to 4 p. m.

Two bank managers, several banking inspectors, a handful of cashiers, junior clerks, five girl typists and messengers up to 60 years of age do the regular hard and dirty work of the factory hands.

From one bank which the draft left with only four men, all four volunteered. When they cease work they chalk up the output figures of the machines on which they have been working; that is the target for the succeeding Sunday's team.

America's secret weapon—never suspected by the dictators: Unity!

Grandmother—Louise, I cannot have you reading novels on Sunday!

Louise—But, grandma, this one is all right. It's all about a girl who was engaged to three clergymen, all at once.

It is only by the united fulfillment of that duty by everyone of us that we can surmount the dangers which threaten us now more gravely than ever before in our history.

The new clerk came out of the boss's office looking puzzled.

Fellow Clerk—Did you tell him where he would get off if you didn't get the raise?

New Clerk—Yes, I told him I would leave him flat if I didn't get it.

Fellow Clerk—What did he say?

New Clerk—Why, he told me he hadn't time to sing it, but I would find the firm's answer in the second line of "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here."

A newspaper offered a prize for the best definition of money. This definition won: "Money is an article which may be used as an universal passport to everything except heaven and as an universal provider, except happiness."

Junior—I'm glad I won't be living a thousand years from now.

Father—Why?

Junior—Just think of all the history there'll be to study by that time.

WAR-TIME PHILOSOPHY

In war times nations prepare for the worst, not that they may realize it but to make certain they can successfully cope with it.

... That is good policy, good not only for nations but also for individuals no matter what their financial circumstances. . . . And for this reason saving in war time is of greater importance than it is in peace time, a fact recognized by the government in offering War Savings Bonds. . . . And this is war-time philosophy that everyone can understand.

Elsie—How did your sister ever happen to marry such a half-wit?

James—Well, she's such an incurable bargain-hunter that she just can't resist anything that's half-off.

I Hope—and Hope

A sad event has just occurred. My birthday's drifted by. Without a party, gift, or cake (I'd take a birthday pie).

On dates of some events, I note they have big celebrations. Sometimes it's friends or families, but other times whole nations.

Why, on some anniversaries, they even close the banks; And, on one day (or two) each year, all persons offer thanks.

To have your birthday glorified—Oh, wouldn't that be fine?

I hope—and hope—some day, somewhere, someone will notice mine.

Mrs. Tiltmore—You're not keeping to the diet the doctor prescribed.

Mrs. Hefty—What? Do you think I'm going to starve myself to death just so I can live a few years longer?

Wife—Mrs. Jones was outspoken at the Red Cross Work Room today, John.

Husband—I can't believe it. Who outspoke her?

What Women Escape: Statisticians estimate that a man shaves twenty square miles of face during a life time.

Detective Chief—How about that pretty shoplifter I told you to shadow? You know the one we suspected of wearing that stolen bathing suit out of Blitzen's Department Store. Now before you come back I want that mystery solved.

Operative 13—Don't worry, Chief. I'm going to unravel that tonight.

New Gas-Coal Unit

Chungking (AP)—A new high efficiency converter unit for producing gas from coal for the operation of trucks and motor cars developed by Hsu Chu-fel, Chinese engineer, has passed initial tests. The new converter produced gas so rapidly that the test car was put in motion within 56 seconds after the fire in the converter furnace was started. According to the designer the unit will produce ten per cent more power than any existing converter unit. Hsu said the average truck equipped with his converter unit would be able to travel approximately 120 kilometers without refueling.

Alderman Roth asked "if an act is not legal does an alderman still uphold it?"

"I favor an ordinance," said Alderman Black, "but not at this time."

Alderman Monroe pointed out that at the August meeting the aldermen all voted in favor of the ordinance and "now they say it is an inopportune time for such an ordinance."

"I am willing to amend the ordinance to advance the time of bidding to March instead of in November," said Alderman Monroe.

The question before the council, said Alderman Black, "is not to amend the ordinance but to act on the veto."

The veto was sustained with the Democrats voting in favor of it.

President Schwenk ruled "the ordinance stands as vetoed."

Offers Another

Alderman Monroe then offered a new ordinance which was similar to the one vetoed, but which made the time for asking bids March instead of November.

The ordinance offered by Alderman Monroe was referred to the laws and rules committee and a recess taken and when the council reconvened the committee reported favorably.

Alderman Monroe then offered the ordinance for adoption but before the vote was taken he said he desired to explain that Corporation Counsel Forman had met with the committee during the recess and had "definitely stated that the ordinance as drafted was perfectly legal, but that it was not good policy to pass it at this time."

"The question of policy," said Alderman Monroe, "is one for the aldermen to decide, and I wish you would consider that on voting for the ordinance."

Alderman Black before the vote was taken wanted action deferred until spring, while Alderman Gilday said that "present conditions did not warrant or necessitate the adoption of such an ordinance."

Why Introduced

It is understood that the real reason behind the introduction of an ordinance placing the power of leasing concessions in the hands of the common council was due largely to the mixup that nearly caused the cancellation of the annual county fair at Forsyth Park in August.

The fair officials had been notified by city officials that the selling of refreshments on the ground would not be permitted. Later this decision was reversed and the fair officials notified they could proceed as usual.

Reports Dogbite

It was reported to the police department Tuesday afternoon that Joseph Albany, 12, of 48 Cedar street had been bitten in the left arm by a dog. The boy had the wound cauterized by a physician.

Black's Speech

Alderman Black read a prepared speech in which he said that at the last meeting of the council the aldermen had voted unanimously to grant Alderman Lenihan his pay for July. "I know that most of the aldermen voted for this resolution, because they were not aware that the corporation counsel had given an opinion that the continuance of Alderman Lenihan's salary over a period in which his place was vacant would be illegal."

"Mr. President," said Alderman Black, addressing President Schwenk, "you were aware of the existence of this opinion at the time you suggested that the resothat had the backing and approval of the citizens of Kingston.

Action on the Lenihan salary question provoked verbal exchanges in what proved one of the most hectic meetings of the Common Council in years, with Alderman Black and Alderman Gilday reading prepared speeches on the subject, attacking President Schwenk.

The Connolly resolution was adopted by a vote of 8 to 5, Alderman William J. Houghtaling, Democrat of the Fourth Ward voting with the Republicans.

Alderman Houghtaling explained his vote in favor of the resolution was on the ground that it "recommended," instead of "directed," that the salary be paid Alderman Lenihan.

Mayor's Veto Read

Mayor Edelmuth in the memorandum accompanying his veto of the Lenihan resolution adopted at the August meeting said that much as he would like to pay Alderman Lenihan's salary it could not be done as the corporation counsel had ruled that it was illegal to do so.

The mayor suggested that if the Common Council desired to collect the money to pay the salary that he would be willing to contribute $5 toward the purse and that Corporation Counsel Joseph H. Forman would also contribute to the fund.

The mayor wrote that the aldermen had not seen fit to confer with the corporation counsel "before they had taken such hasty action."

Tabled Veto

Alderman Connolly moved that the resolution be tabled and that action be taken by majority vote of the council.

Alderman Black said that he believed the Connolly resolution to table the resolution and the mayor's veto were out of order.

President Schwenk read a section from the clerk's manual of the state legislature which ruled that vetoes could be tabled.

Alderman Connolly said that a motion to table was not debatable.

With the tabling of the original resolution Alderman Connolly introduced the resolution "recommending the paying of the Lenihan salary as a moral obligation."

Alderman Connolly in explaining the resolution said that he felt it was a moral obligation on the part of the city to pay the salary and that such action was not without precedent, since several other communities in the state had taken similar action where officials had become members of the armed forces.

Wants No Purse

"As far as Mayor Edelmuth offering to contribute $5 toward a purse to pay Alderman Lenihan's salary," said Alderman Connolly, "I talked with Alderman Lenihan when he was home on a furlough last month and he told me he would not accept any purse and did not want the hat passed in his behalf. Alderman Lenihan believed that the salary was justly due him, since no appointment was made in his place by the mayor until August 1."

Black's Speech

Alderman Black read a prepared speech in which he said that at the last meeting of the council the aldermen had voted unanimously to grant Alderman Lenihan his pay for July. "I know that most of the aldermen voted for this resolution, because they were not aware that the corporation counsel had given an opinion that the continuance of Alderman Lenihan's salary over a period in which his place was vacant would be illegal."

"Mr. President," said Alderman Black, addressing President Schwenk, "you were aware of the existence of this opinion at the time you suggested that the reso-

Censure Resolution Fails; No Second

Chief of Police Charles Phinney will not be censured by the Common Council for having the traffic light on Broadway at Foxhall avenue removed.

At the aldermanic meeting last night Alderman Andrew T. Gilday of the Third Ward asked President John J. Schwenk if the council had the authority to censure a public official.

"Certainly the council has that authority," replied President Schwenk.

Alderman Gilday then introduced a resolution that the council censure the police chief.

The resolution was not seconded, and the chief remains uncensured.

Offered by Alderman Connolly

Alderman Black said that President Schwenk was aware of the existence of this opinion, "you read it less than 10 minutes before you opened the meeting at which this resolution was adopted, in the face of this opinion, Mr. President, in which our legal advisor held that payment would be contrary to law, an attempt had been made to direct a city official to perform an illegal act."

"I believe that the city officials have been most efficient and this instance proves that they are conducting the city's affairs within the lines prescribed by law."

"There is no dispute of the fact that a vacancy existed during July, there should be no disputing the fact that no matter what your personal feelings may be, you can't give away public money."

"Full responsibility for this attempt to compel the city officials to perform an illegal act rests upon those who sponsored this resolution, and especially upon those who, knowing the existence of this opinion, kept that fact to themselves."

Alderman Black contended that to give this money to Lenihan would be "as illegal as to give it to his successor. No one is entitled to public money unless he earns it."

"Mr. President," said Alderman Black, "I am of the opinion that the majority of this council believes in conducting the city's affairs according to law. It is my belief that no other city official shall attempt to usurp the powers of another."

"The Kingston Daily Freeman on August 5, 1942, said," Alderman Black declared, "Alderman-at-large John J. Schwenk revealed that the common council's action last night to allow salary for July to Democratic Alderman Martin Lenihan was prompted by the refusal of Corporation Counsel Joseph H. Forman to recommend payment of the salary."

"If this Freeman article is true," said Alderman Black, "the council president learned of a communication from the corporation counsel, in which the latter refused to sanction payment of the salary and he suggested the resolution by Alderman Connolly, seconded by Alderman Roth."

Alderman Black said "The Freeman says you learned of a communication from Forman. In fact, you read it, you had it in your hands, you know its contents, you knew it would be illegal to pay the salary. And knowing of this opinion why did you not so inform the members of this council so that they might have voted intelligently?"

"The Freeman further said," continued Alderman Black, "that President Schwenk said today that the action of the corporation counsel appeared more like a personal act of retaliation against Martin Lenihan than a stand on the city's legal rights."

"This, Mr. President, is a grave charge," said Alderman Black. "Here you accuse an attorney, of high standing of misconduct in office. I think in all fairness you should offer proof to substantiate your charge or apologize publicly."

If He Was Mayor

President Schwenk in reply to Black's speech said he wanted it distinctly understood that he considered the payment of Alderman Lenihan's salary for July as a moral obligation.

"If I had been mayor of the city," said President Schwenk, "Martin Lenihan would have received his salary."

"Alderman Black has stated in his eloquent address that I had said it was an act of retaliation and that fact has not been substantiated."

Roth Retorts

Alderman Victor H. Roth of the Twelfth ward said that he could not see how the minority party could reconcile their action. When they voted at the August meeting unanimously for the resolution they knew what they were doing.

"I took the floor that night," said Alderman Roth, "and explained fully that the paying of the salary was not a legal act, but a moral responsibility. The minority party knew all about it."

Alderman Monroe of the Eighth ward said the resolution before the council was only a recommendation that the salary be paid.

That one of the members of the council had joined the army, not as an officer, but as a private.

"If the council has not got the guts to spend $29.16 when they know they have the support of the people behind them," said Alderman Monroe, "there is something lacking. This is a moral obligation and should be paid."

Gilday's Offer

Alderman Gilday said that while he was heartily in favor of Lenihan getting his money the city could not legally pay the salary.

"I'll match dollar for dollar any sum the council members contribute."

Alderman Black made a similar offer.

Alderman Connolly reminded them that he had taken the matter up with Lenihan and that Lenihan was opposed to passing the hat and would not accept it.

"Other cities have corporation counsels," said Alderman Connolly, "and they have not opposed payment of salary to officials who are in the armed forces. I admit that Mr. Forman is a lawyer of good repute and as has been stated here tonight we accept his opinion on the legality of the question."

"We are working under the laws of the State of New York," said Alderman Paul Zucca of the First ward, "and if similar action has been taken in other cities there is no reason why we can not follow precedent."

Alderman Lang, Black and Gilday disclaimed knowledge of the opinion rendered in August by the corporation counsel.

"The Master's Voice"

Alderman Fred L. Renn of the Tenth Ward said he could understand if one, two or three men had changed their minds, but when six men changed their minds it appeared to him "that they have heard their master's voice."

"Up to this day," said Alderman Renn, "I have always voted as I believed right and I have never changed my vote. I have had pressure put on me, but when a man votes for a proposition he should stick with his vote. When I vote on a proposition after I have carefully considered it my vote stands."

Gilday's Speech

Alderman Gilday read a prepared speech to the effect that the Freeman on August 12 printed a letter "supposedly written by former Alderman Lenihan. I ask you to note first of all that it is dated Tampa, Fla., August 11, and that it was printed in The Freeman on August 12. Even in these modern times I think this should be considered rapid transit."

"It seems almost impossible that he could have written the letter, but regardless of who actually did, there are statements contained in it which out of fairness to the administration must be clarified and refuted."

"First of all the letter repeats the charge made by the alderman-at-large to the effect that Forman's opinion was retaliatory. To that I say Forman holds no ill feeling against the former alderman."

"The letter also quotes Lenihan as saying that during his short term of office many controversial bills came before the auditing committee of which he was a member."

"I ask any member of the council to produce one single bill presented to the auditing committee and turned down since the first of January, 1942. The letter also intimates that Forman seeks to retaliate because Lenihan refused to sign an auditing committee report recommending the payment of the claim of Sid Black. The accident from which this claim arises occurred on October 31, 1941, two months before the Heislman administration left office."

"The records show that the council during the past eight months have paid four claims for accidents that happened during the Heislman administration."

"Just why the alderman-at-large and the former alderman refused to sign the Black claim is a moot question," said Alderman Gilday.

Alderman Gilday said that the Black accident had been investigated by the adjuster employed by the carrier of the city's insurance and that he reported that the claimant should be paid the damage done his truck and would recommend such payment. Mr. Forman sent a copy of the report of Mr. Dunham, investigator, to the auditing committee and joined in the recommendation that the claim be allowed."

Gilday said that the administration has never insisted nor is it now insisting that this claim be paid, but it seemed to him that the report of the investigation and the recommendation of the corporation counsel should have been accepted and the claim paid long ago.

Schwenk Replied

President Schwenk in reply to

Talks With Script Are Rapped by Renn

There was a slight, humorous interlude at the Common Council meeting Tuesday evening when Alderman Fred Renn, who had been an attentive listener while Alderman Paul Black and Alderman Andrew Gilday had read prepared speeches, arose to his feet and addressing the chair said:

"If I only had some idea of what was going to happen at the next council meeting I would have someone write me some speeches too."

Alderman Black and Gilday were on their feet instantly replying that the inference made by Alderman Renn that someone had written their speeches was untrue; that they had written them themselves.

"If you want a speech written any time," said Alderman Black, turning to Alderman Renn, "let me know in time and I will write you one too."

"Thanks," said Alderman Renn.

Gilday's attack stated that he had never urged any one on the auditing committee to sign any claim or bill without using his own judgment in the matter. "No member of the auditing committee has ever been told by me how to vote on any report or claim," said Alderman Schwenk.

"Now in regard to this Black claim when I read a letter written by William Scott, driver of the city's truck in collision with the Black vehicle I was not satisfied that the claim was a just one, as Mr. Scott denied he was at fault, and he had the sworn affidavit of a witness to that effect which he showed me."

"When I had talked with Mr. Scott I got in touch with Mr. Black and suggested that we go over the matter and make a thorough investigation of the facts."

"We did not get together on this proposition the afternoon of the council meeting when the auditing committee was to report but before the council meeting I received a telephone call from Sid Black in which he threatened me with bodily harm unless I favored his claim."

of the property. The city assessor wrote that the property assessment had been reduced $1,500 and recommended that the taxes paid by Mr. Gellner amounting to $80.58 should be refunded. This action was taken by the council.

David H. Breitenbecker, Sr., filed a claim with the council to recover $10.50 for damages to the spring on his auto which had broken, due, he claimed to the bad road conditions on Linderman avenue. The claim was referred to the auditing committee and corporation counsel. The council also authorized a refund of $18.56 in taxes on the personage of the First Reformed Church.

The traffic control committee reported favorably on the installation of stop and go signs on Lincoln street at Clifton avenue, and also on Wiltwyck avenue at Downs street. A covering ordinance was adopted.

WHAT SPEEDS TO MAINTAIN!

There are certain highway speeds, depending on driving conditions and the condition of your car, which will take you farthest on the least amount of gasoline.

WHEN TO SHIFT GEARS!

Few people realize how much extra gas it takes to drive a car in "low" or "second." But there's a simple rule for shifting gears that will prevent needless waste while accelerating.

WHAT TO DO AT STOPS!

It's a fact! You waste gas every time you step on the brake at intersections and stop lights. But our suggestions on correct stopping will cut that waste to a minimum.

HOW TO HANDLE "COMPRESSION KNOCK"

Should you have the spark set way back, to compensate for the reduced anti-knock values of war-time gasoline? Don't take the word of anyone but an expert on this one.

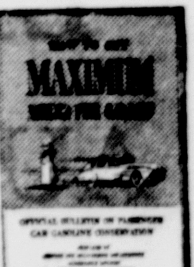

WHAT TO DO ABOUT TIRES, BRAKES, BEARINGS!

The alignment of your wheels, the inflation of the tires, and the condition of brakes and wheel bearings have much to do with gasoline consumption. Do you know why, and what you can do about it?

See Your Oldsmobile Dealer!

Powers' Case Will Be Given To Grand Jury Next Week

spent in an old moving van a mile or so from the farmhouse where the Neffs made their summer home. He came to the farmhouse around 11 o'clock Friday morning and had dinner there at noon.

In the afternoon a long and heated argument arose over the ownership and transfer of the farm property, which formerly belonged to Powers, but which had been taken over by the Neffs a year or so ago, when mortgage payments were not met.

The argument ended up by Powers shooting and killing both his sister and her husband and hiding their bodies in the cellar of the farmhouse. Powers claimed that his sister had threatened him with a knife, that he pointed the gun at her and it was discharged.

An action is now pending in Supreme Court, Patrick Powers against Bridget Neff, which has reference to the disputed ownership of the farm on which the murders took place and which seeks to "set aside alleged deed."

The action was started in the summer of 1941 and first appeared on the calendar on August of that year. Flanagan & Kaecher are attorneys of record for Powers, with Peter H. Harp representing Bridget Neff.

"LOOKING UP THE FRIEND OF A FRIEND" IS ENTIRELY PROPER

A soldier who was told by some of his friends at home to look up several families who are friends of theirs and who live near the camp asked this question: "Without a letter of introduction, can a man take the liberty of getting in touch with the strangers on the say-so of mutual friends? Won't it put them in the position of feeling that they have to go out of their way to entertain him?"

The answer to this is: "Certainly he can get in touch with them, and their obligation to him will be much less than it would, had he brought a letter of introduction. If he has any civilian cards with him, he writes Private or 2nd Lieut. (or whatever his rank) in front of his name, and Camp A under it, and then beneath—Am a friend of the John Blanks of Wide-

When Is Late?

Dear Mrs. Post: I will be a junior in high school next year. I am allowed to go to parties and dances now and again with boy friends, but I have to be home no later than 12:30 o'clock. The dance usually ends at midnight, but it takes time to stop with the crowd to get a soda on the way home. The drug store is usually crowded and service is slow. The other girl and boy who always go with us don't have to be in until 1:30 or 2 o'clock. There are very few girls who have to be in as early as I have to, and I am getting tired of being teased about my mother's apron strings. What time do you think I ought to be allowed to come home when things are as I have explained? My parents like my friends.

Answer: I think 12:30 is far beyond the hour when a well-broughtup girl under 18 should be out under ordinary circumstances. Really fastidious parents put the hour at 11: liberal ones at 11:30 with later privileges given only on very special occasions.

Exchanging Presents

Dear Mrs. Post: When a bride feels impelled to exchange a wedding present for something else which she needs and hasn't got, does she tell the person who gave the present or write "thank you for your beautiful present" just as though she still had it.

Answer: She writes her note of thanks for the present. In fact, the note of thanks should be written long before she has a chance to change it.

WHAT IT MEANS

Labor Vs. WPB:
Comes the Evolution

By HERMAN ALLEN

War speeds up the evolution of many an institution. That, in the eyes of some Washington labor experts, is what is happening in the current go-round between AFL and CIO leaders on the one hand and the WPB on the other.

The labor people are telling the WPB this: "Look—we told you a year ago you would need three million pounds of aluminum. You said one million would be enough, but you found you needed closer to three million to carry out the airplane schedules."

"We told you there would be a steel shortage, and there is. We gave you a plan for conversion of automobile factories. You shelved it, but you have had to convert those factories."

"We were in a position to know about these things, but we got the brush-off. The reason we got the brush-off was the same reason that management-labor committees in individual factories got the brush-off. Management, which is entrenched in the WPB, was afraid that labor would get too much power and that our unions would make too much headway."

"We—the employee class of the nation—have more people involved in this war than anybody else, and we want a hand in running it. We want some seats at the top of the War Production Board. We want a new board that will plan and coordinate all phases of war production, and we want to be represented on it. We want to be represented in every branch and division of WPB."

And there, if labor gets what it demands, is where the speed-up in evolution will come in.

Most American sociologists figure that labor's position in this country is about 20 years behind labor's position in Britain, Australia, New Zealand—even Canada. Labor is regarded as grown-up and responsible in the British Commonwealth. The war may spin the clock to the point where labor will enjoy the same status here.

The British fumbled with labor for a few months, but Dunkerque shocked her into understanding that only with labor's full support could she hope to win the war. She set up a system of 12 regional boards, each responsible to the Production Council comparable to our WPB.

On each board are three representatives of labor, three representatives of employers, plus representatives of such government agencies as the Ministry of Labor, Ministry of Supply, the Admiralty and the Board of Trade. Each board member is responsible to the group he represents, but the board as a whole is responsible only to the Production Council.

Somewhat like that is what labor would like to see set up here. Naturally such a program would meet resistance from employer groups—the men who labor claims dominate the WPB through its $1-a-year men. It is obvious that it might lead to a stronger labor hand in post-war government.

Liberals, however, declare there's nothing alarming about that prospect. They point to the fact that life went on just about the same under labor government in England as under other regimes. Leading Australian papers commented in the mid-30s that the New Deal seemed to be all right as far as it went.

Actually, there's no telling what might come out of it. One sure bet, though, is that labor won't give up any gains without a fight.

War Has Changed
Clothing ProgramMore Rayons Will Be Used
During Next Year

Ithaca—The American family must streamline its clothing program to meet war needs during the coming year, according to Professor Beulah Blackmore of the New York State College of Home Economics. There will be an adequate supply of needed goods, but frills are out for the duration.

The homemaker will find many changes in her buying program next year. Shortages of clothing materials, rising prices, and labor problems will necessitate adjustment of clothing buying. The diversion of textile machinery to the production of materials for armed forces, development of substitutes, and efforts to forestall further inflation will also have an effect on the clothing budget.

Professor Blackmore said a shortage of finished goods has been caused by diversion of loom capacity to the manufacture of cloth for wartime needs, even though there is an ample supply of raw cotton on hand.

The supply of wool goods this year will depend on military requirements and imports. Though civilians may have sufficient wool to meet essential needs, the material will be blended with other fibers. Rayons will be used to relieve fiber shortages.

"Industry is expected to supply enough chemicals for essential clothing need," Professor Blackmore said. "Fewer colors will be available and since many present solvents are critical materials, petroleum products will be used for home and commercial dry cleaning. No shortage of soap is expected."

Yachts Are Used
To Trap Raiders
On Coastal Shores

An East Coastport, Sept. 2 (AP)—Once their sleek hulls cut the peaceful waters of Newport, Long Island Sound and Bermuda to vie for Silver Regatta cups, but now these ocean-going sloops and yawls—dull gray but just as fast as ever—are after bigger game.

Axis submarines are their quarry as they range the Atlantic coastal waters daily in the role of auxiliary "eyes" for the coast guard, and the skippers of these one-time pleasure craft are finding it's no job for prima-donna yachtsmen.

Tough, old oystermen, young college graduates and middle-aged yachtsmen, members of the Coast Guard Temporary Reserve, make up the crews of the racers that were the pride of the New York, Larchmont, Stamford and other yacht clubs and they're prouder of their coast guard ratings than of any old trophy.

"Some fellows came down here for a vacation cruise and folded up when they got out there in the ocean," said one member of the coastal picket patrol, Frazer B. Wilde, Jr., 23-year-old son of the president of the Connecticut General Life Insurance Company, Hartford.

Sailing out of this port, the yachts take up stations miles out in the Atlantic and lie to with shortened sail for a week at a stretch while their crews scan the seas for undersea raiders. On sighting a sub or unidentified plane, the warning is flashed by radio-telephone to coast guard stations ashore and thence to headquarters of the eastern sea frontier, which marshals defense forces.

Lieut. Rufus G. Smith of the Coast Guard Reserve, commanding the picket patrol, said he had almost 100 men serving under him but that he needed many more, as well as more sailing vessels, to keep enemy submarines away from the coast.

On each board are three representatives of labor, three representatives of employers, plus representatives of such government agencies as the Ministry of Labor, Ministry of Supply, the Admiralty and the Board of Trade. Each board member is responsible to the group he represents, but the board as a whole is responsible only to the Production Council.

Pontiac Private
Gets Lift in Car

Benefactress Tells Foster at Terminus She Is Queen Mother

London, Sept. 2 (AP)—Private Ora A. Foster, 22-year-old soldier from Pontiac, Mich., said today that "like most soldiers I did all the talking" when a lady graciously gave him a lift in her limousine.

That is, he did all the talking at first.

Finally she asked: "You don't know who I am, do you?"

He replied politely: "I can't say as I do."

She identified herself as Queen Mother Mary.

"I couldn't think of a thing to say," Foster confessed.

Foster was walking along an English country road Saturday evening when he thumbed a ride in the big car.

He acknowledged today he should have had some idea of his benefactress' identity when she briskly asked a colonel beside her to go up front with the chauffeur.

But he didn't and so he talked—for a time—unabashed.

When the queen mother asked him how he liked England, he recalled today that he replied casually:

"There's no place like home but this is a nice place for a vacation."

The queen mother remarked that the Americans and British should get to know one another better.

A new suspicion that it wasn't just another day in a soldier's life came when the queen mother asked another woman in the car to hand her a package.

The reply came: "Yes, your majesty."

"I knew that something was wrong then," Foster said.

But by then the car had reached the village of his destination and the queen mother identified herself.

Recreations Seek Second Win Over Puerto Ricans Tonight

Local Ball Team Is Playing 700 Ball So Far This Season

Bill Simmons Will Try for Fifth Victory of Year; Game to Start at 8:45 P. M.

It's baseball night again in Kingston tonight when the Kingston Recreation team will entertain the crack Puerto Ricans at the municipal stadium. The game is scheduled to get under way at 8:45 o'clock sharp.

This will be the second meeting of the two clubs and local interest has been at a high pitch ever since it was announced that the Ricans were coming back again. One of the best ball games of the season resulted from the first meeting when Kingston edged in a single run in the last half of the ninth inning to trip the Islanders by 1-0.

The same two starting flingers, Bill Simmons for the Recs and Juan Santalea for the invaders, are expected to get the starting assignment. Simmons will definitely start. Bill hurled himself a wonderful game before against this club and stands to make it two in a row tonight. Santalea also pitched an airtight game and local fans hope he's on the hill again.

This will be the 31st game of the current campaign for the local semi-pro tossed. In the 30 contests to date the Recs have come through with a remarkable record of 21 triumphs against nine setbacks for an even 700 percentage. Four of those defeats were administered by two clubs, the Bushwicks and Newark Eagles, both first rate clubs in every sense of the word.

Last for Maines

Tonight will be the final night for Tommy Maines in left field. After the game he'll leave for Syracuse to start football drills Thursday. Dick Whitesell, another Rec slugger, is at Syracuse and reports tomorrow morning for the initial grid drill. From the outset of the year Maines has been in a terrific batting slump but he hopes to end the year tonight with a couple of base hits.

Ernie Downer, Angelo Lucchi and Maines will make up the Recs' line department tonight. When the Mount Vernon Scots of the M. B. A. appear here Saturday night Sam Williams will be used in left for the Recs. Williams is the boy the club tried to acquire at the start of the year.

Tonight's ball game, which is one of the remaining outings for the Recs before another baseball campaign concludes, has taken the eye of every fan in town. A lot of spectators missed the last tussle between the teams and after hearing about the game felt as though they had missed a terrific struggle. Club officials expect one of the finest turnouts of the season at the stadium tonight for this outstanding attraction.

The Ricans have a stellar team this year and are at present running through the metropolitan teams in good fashion. Last week they split two games with the Queens club of which Lucchi is a member. Lucchi, who has played against the Islanders many a time, says that he rates the Ricans on the par with any of the Negro clubs.

American Association Is Scene of Struggle; Blues Hold Top Spot for Flag

Kansas City, Sept. 2 (AP)—Kansas City, Milwaukee and Columbus, little more than three percentage points apart, continue to run one-two-three in the hectic American Association pennant chase today, leaving Toledo to produce the only change in the first division standings. While all three leaders were winning last night, Toledo and Louisville began their separate battle for fourth place and the first round was all Toledo. The Mudhens won a double-header, 3-1 and 6-0.

Cards Defeat Boston, 4-3; Remain 3½ Games Behind Brooklyn in Dash for Flag

Mort Cooper Registers 18th Win for Birds; Claude Passeau Also Takes 18th

(By The Associated Press)

There has been no Bobby Feller around this season, threatening the sacrosanct ranks of baseball's 30-game winners, but it looks like the major leagues will have their full quota of 20-game pitchers.

Right now Mort Cooper and Rookie Johnny Beazley of the St. Louis Cardinals, Claude Passeau of the Chicago Cubs, Tex Hughson of the Boston Red Sox and Ernie Bonham of the New York Yankees seem almost certain to cross the line that is considered the mark of a successful pitcher.

Cooper and Passeau won their 18th victories yesterday, Hughson nailed his the day before, and Beazley and Bonham have 17. Additional prospects for the society are Whitlow Wyatt of Brooklyn and Johnny Vander Meer of Cincinnati, each of whom has won 16 games, and an outside chance might be conceded to some of the group of 15-game winners such as Curt Davis, who has been doubling in relief roles for the Dodgers and recently won two games in two days.

Cooper came through last night against the Boston Braves with a 4-3 triumph that kept the Cardinals within 3½ games of the first place Dodgers.

The superstitious right-hander, who wore uniform No. 13 until he couldn't get over the hurdle of 13 victories a few weeks ago, had No. 18 on his back last night in his system of rotating his numbers to conform with his pitching goals.

He needed a little lift to beat the Braves and this may have inspired him to crack out a pair of singles, one of which drove in two of the St. Louis runs. In addition he spaced nine hits, fanned seven and walked one.

Al Javery, the Boston ace, had won seven straight and his teammates gave him a two-run lead before the Cards started clicking.

but they finally made their 13 hits count, getting the deciding run in the seventh with a long fly after loading the bases on three singles. Brooklyn had placed the issue squarely up to the Redbirds by winning an afternoon tussle from the Pittsburgh Pirates 4-2 on the five-hit hurling of Kirby Higley. It was the 14th triumph for the Dodger right-hander, who never had beaten the Pirates as a starting pitcher. In six seasons in the National League he had lost to Pittsburgh nine times.

The Dodgers made 10 hits off two Pittsburgh hurlers, but had to score their runs one to an inning and three of them insured plays at the plate. The defeat mathematically eliminated the Pirates from the pennant race.

Passeau's 18th victory was by a 10-5 score that snapped a six-game winning streak of the New York Giants. The veteran was rapped for 13 hits and his teammates contributed to the confusion with five errors, but Passeau never let the Giants get out of control. In turn the Cubs, after being held hitless for three innings, hit by Hal Schumacher, made 12 hits and blew the game open in the sixth inning with a six-run rally sparked by Bill Nicholson's 19th home run with one on.

Cincinnati completed a sweep of its four-game series with the tail-end Phils with a 4-3 verdict achieved in the 11th inning when Frank McCormick singled with the bases loaded. McCormick also had two other hits and drove across the tying run in the ninth.

The Washington Senators won the day's only game in the American League in the same fashion, as James (Mickey) Vernon singled with the sacks filled in the 10th to nose out the Cleveland Indians 4-3. Alex Carrasquel scattered nine hits, but was harassed by three errors and trailed till the seventh when Catcher Jake Early homered with one aboard.

With every leaf blown off by bombs, a rose bush in Canterbury, England, was in full bloom this summer.

Kendalls Register Two Softball Wins In Recent Contests

Softies Capture Games From Hercules, 9-3, and Hildebrants by 7 to 2 Scores

In two recent softball games the Kendalls scored a pair of victories over the Hercules and Hildebrants. Kendalls turned back the Powdermen by 9 to 3 and the Shipbuilders by 7-2.

Spotting Hercules a 3 to 1 lead at the end of the first inning of play, the Kendalls poured back in two big innings. Six big markers were pushed across in the fifth and two more in the sixth to complete the rout by 9-3.

Costello hurled the victory and allowed five hits. Manfro and Tomshaw hurled for the losing club. The Kendalls walloped these two flingers for 12 blows. Hofbauer, Emmick and Madden paced the winners with two hits apiece.

In the Kendall-Hildebrant tussle the latter club took a 2-0 lead with single tallies in the third and fifth. However, this lead went by the boards as the Kendalls came to life in the bottom half of the fifth with three runs. A cluster of four more markers in the last of the sixth clinched the ball game for Kendalls.

Costello was on the mound for the winners in this game and allowed only four hits. The winners pounded Snyder for 11 assorted knockouts. Murphy, Madden and Emmick paced the victors with two bingles apiece.

President to Get Report on Rubber

Special Committee Will Submit Its Findings by Labor Day

Washington, Sept. 2 (AP)—The President's special rubber committee today rounded out four weeks of investigation and authoritative sources said the group would submit its findings and recommendations to Mr. Roosevelt by Labor Day.

A decision on nationwide gasoline rationing as well as on the steps to supply vital rubber needs hinges upon the committee's studies, the President said in appointing the three-man group headed by Bernard M. Baruch, chairman of the War Industries Board in World War I.

The other members are Dr. James B. Conant, president of Harvard University, and Dr. Karl T. Compton, president of Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Every car owner in America has a direct concern in their work, but perhaps those awaiting the report with the greatest interest were the western and mid-western Senators who sponsored legislation to establish a separate government authority for making synthetic rubber from agricultural and forest products.

It was in connection with his veto of their bill that Mr. Roosevelt announced the appointment of the special rubber committee. Under plans worked out by the War Production Board in conjunction with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, synthetic rubber plants with an ultimate capacity of more than 800,000 tons a year are projected or under construction. Of the total production, about 200,000 tons a year would be from alcohol, the remainder from petroleum sources. Lawmakers from states with grain supplies protested that rubber could be produced cheaper and quicker from such farm crops.

"This bill is not dead, it's only sleeping," remarked Senator Norris (Ind., Neb.), expressing the hope that the Baruch committee's report would be "fair and impartial." Under Senate rules, a motion to override the President's veto would be in order any time before the end of the current session. For that reason the farm-rubber group has adopted a wait-and-see policy.

Fuel Oil Rations Face East; Gas Use May Be Curtailed

Nelson Says Program Will Be Announced Which May Affect States in Midwest

Washington, Sept. 2 (AP)—Fuel oil rationing and probably further curtailment of gasoline consumption today confronted eastern householders and motorists.

Confirming reports that the East would have less oil for heating homes, War Production Chief Donald M. Nelson asserted yesterday that a rationing program would be announced soon, perhaps later this week, and might affect some midwestern states. At the same time, a committee formed by the Petroleum Industry War Council to study oil trends suggested that because eastern gasoline consumption in the last two months exceeded expectation the four-gallon-unit value of ration coupons might have to be reduced.

Commenting on the situation at his press conference, President Roosevelt said the curtailment of fuel oil likely would be 25 per cent in some localities. Nelson observed that the question of which states to include in the rationing area would have to be worked out with several other details. The reason for extending rationing to the midwest, he added, would be to make additional tank cars available to supply the East.

Officials studying fuel oil problems who declined to be quoted by name, indicated that a basic ration sufficient to heat homes to an average temperature of 68 degrees was being considered with supplemental supplies to be issued on the basis of need.

To induce conversion of heating equipment from oil to coal wherever possible, these sources said, it was planned to withhold supplemental rations from householders who neglected to comply. The petroleum industry committee reported, meantime, that while only 435,000 barrels of gasoline would be supplied daily to the East for the next seven months, consumption averaged 513,000 barrels a day from July 22 to August 22.

The committee asserted that further restrictive measures on gasoline consumption in the East were "obviously essential."

Negro Will Answer In Long Island Court

Thaddeus Sutt, a negro, who said he had been working on a farm at Hurley, was picked up on a charge of public intoxication last night by the police. There was found on his person a chauffeur's license, a Selective Service card and several pawn tickets, the property of a white man. According to the police he is accused of stealing the articles while on Long Island. Sutt had no draft card of his own, and claimed he had lost it. Judge Matthew V. Cahill sentenced Sutt to four days in the county jail, and at the expiration of that sentence it is expected that the State Police from Long Island will take Sutt back there to stand trial on a charge of theft.

Five Cases Ready

At the calendar call Tuesday afternoon for the term of Supreme Court which opens in Kingston at 11 a. m. Tuesday, September 8, Deputy County Clerk Ward B. Tongue marked five cases ready for trial at the opening of court. They are Nos. 62, 158, 222, 223 and 240. There are 277 cases on the calendar and outside of the five marked ready 136 others were marked trial or trial, exception. Nine cases were marked settled. They are Nos. 10, 69, 89, 93, 133, 184, 207, 232, 249. Justice Harry E. Schirick is scheduled to hold the coming term of court here.

Model Sues for $50,000

New York, Sept. 1 (AP)—Dawn Littlefield, 25-year-old model from Dallas, Tex., filed a $50,000 assault suit in State Supreme Court today against Charles Vollmer, 48, bus line operator of Amsterdam, N. Y. The complaint charged that en route to New York from the Empire Race Track in Yonkers July 10 in Vollmer's chauffeur-driven car, he was "anything but a gentleman," struck her and called her "indecent" names. Vollmer's answer charged the model "attempted to seize, steal and take money" from him.

American Legion Challenges Ballot Right of Party

Communists' Rejection Is Requested by Albany County Department; Policy Resisted

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 2 (AP)—The Communist Party, without reply to its proposal of withdrawing its gubernatorial nominee for fusion with the American Labor Party, faced a challenge today from the American Legion to legal place on the November 3 ballot.

The Albany County American Legion has appealed to Secretary of State Michael F. Walsh to reject the Communist nominating petition, declaring it does not meet election law requirements of 12,500 signatures with a minimum of 50 from each county. Expressing admiration for Russian resistance against "the ruthless Nazi invasion," the Albany County Legion commander, Herman P. Greene, said yesterday the Legion policy of "resisting all inroads on the American form of government."

This came as the Friday deadline for withdrawal of independent candidates neared and Dean Alfange, A.L.P. gubernatorial nominee, made no reference in a statement to the Communist fusion suggestion.

Alfange warned Americans last night to be "eternally vigilant" lest they become victims of a post-war "Fascist regime" and declared the A.L.P. "the only political party in the state which now represents the New Deal."

The A.L.P. named Alfange after the Democrats nominated State Attorney General John J. Bennett, Jr., over U. S. Senator James M. Mead, favored by President Roosevelt and the A.L.P. The A.L.P. endorsed the other Democratic nominees.

The Communists' candidate is Israel Amter, who withdrew in 1938 and endorsed Democratic Governor Lehman for re-election. The A.L.P. also supported Lehman four years ago.

The Communist convention last Sunday denounced both Bennett and his Republican opponent, Thomas E. Dewey. Alfange, asked earlier if he would accept Communist support, said:

"I have not sought nor solicited their support." Simon Gerson, Communist campaign director, said Monday a party committee is working out details of a fusion proposal to the A.L.P., providing for withdrawal of Amter.

Objections to the Communist petition were filed in behalf of the Legion and in the names of Earl J. Keough, Albany Democrat, and William G. Schultze, Lathams Red-El. & Hudson.

Disclaiming a quarrel with the form of government of "any people" and praising Russian resistance to the German invasion, Greene said:

"We are willing to contribute wholeheartedly to assist them but we see no similarity between the Russian situation and the activities of the Communist Party in America."

The protest stated "there are not 50 duly qualified voters" in each county who intend to support the Communist Party and added the signatures were not obtained in each county without "fraud, misrepresentation and concealment as to purpose of the petition."

Walsh took the protest under advisement. Meantime, State Democratic Chairman James A. Farley, who opposed President Roosevelt by favoring nomination of Bennett, denied at New York last night he was attempting to organize an anti-New Deal Connecticut delegation to the 1944 Democratic national convention.

"My only activity at the present time," Farley said, "is to further the election of Attorney General John J. Bennett, Jr., and his associates on the Democratic ticket in the state of New York."

Boys Who Made Models Will Be Honored Guests

As a mark of recognition for their work in aiding the army and navy, 12 high school students who have built model airplanes for identification purposes, will be the guests of the Kiwanis Club at the Governor Clinton Hotel tomorrow, it was announced today.

These young men, under the direction of Robert Service and Ellsworth Mack of the high school staff, will be cited for their outstanding work. These planes, built by the students, also will be used by civilian "spotters" in the Aircraft Warning Service as soon as production increases. This is one of the many jobs assigned to the youth of America. Officials are pleased at the results and hope that more boys will offer their help.

An exhibition of the boys' handicraft will be displayed at the Thursday meeting in the form of 10 silhouette models. The models will be explained.

To Hear Major
The group will have an opportunity to hear the guest speaker, Major Charles A. Blackwell, regional director of the ground observer section, aircraft warning service.

Major Blackwell's command consists of the entire Ground Observer Section of the New York Air Defense Wing.

The major joined the American Field Service in 1917 and did ambulance work in France. Later he was transferred to the artillery of the French army and attended the officers school at Fontainebleau. He graduated as a second lieutenant and was assigned to the 40th Artillery Regiment of the 40th Division of the French army, and served at Verdun, in Alsace and on the Aisne. When the war ended he was at Sedan.

When he was ordered retired from service he returned to the United States. Major Blackwell holds the Croix de Guerre with bronze and silver stars, signifying regimental and divisional citations.

Major Blackwell became affiliated with the Aircraft Warning Service last December.

The major will talk at the Kiwanis meeting about further developments in the aircraft warning service. He will be accompanied by Captain Philip Stevenson of the United States Army Air Corps. Other speakers on the program include Eugene P. MacConnell, district civilian director of Aircraft Warning Service and Harry Kirschner, assistant civilian director.
